ONLY HALF HIS RECORD

Senator George, who is being opposed for the United States senate by the chronic office-seeker, Dick Russell, suggests that Mr. Russell ought personally to favor the world court because it promises the creation of another office for which he might run. The intimation is that Russell has run for about all the existing offices.

Mr. Russell attempts to grow red in the face and explodes with indignation as he offers to compare records with Senator George for office-holding. "Let us see," he says, "you were solicitor general of Georgia and I was of mine; you were judge of your circuit, and I was of mine; you were judge of the court of appeals, and so was I; you were a supreme court judge, and so am I; you have been a United Senator—I haven't!"

And then he declares that the preponderance of greed is against Senator George. Mr. Russell's friends acclaim him as a victor in the argument.

The truth is, Mr. Russell is as far from honest in this debate as a professional politician like he could go. During Mr. George's mind you, he referred to Russell's penchant for seeking office, while Mr. Russell diverts attention to his record for holding office. Now there is a vast difference between Russell's record for seeking and holding office and George's record for holding office. Like a wild bird floundering as it is against the net to divert attention from it, Mr. Russell has scurried from the record to which Mr. George referred, and he has trusted the dullness of the people to divert attention from his record.

The record which he makes to appear as modestly in his favor, is really but half his public record within the personal memory of this writer. Let's see what the other half is that he omitted to recall:

In 1904 he ran for chief justice of the supreme court against Chief Justice Simmons—and was defeated.

In 1906 he ran for governor along with Clark Howell, J. H. Estill, Jim Smith and Hoke Smith—and was defeated.

In 1910 he ran for governor to succeed Hoke Smith, along with "Little Joe" Brown and Pope Brown, and he ran on a liquor platform—and was defeated.

1918 or 1920 he ran for Congress in his own district—and was defeated.

The record he has pretended to compare with Senator George was only fifty per cent. of his record for office seeking previous to this. When the present campaign is over there may be added another paragraph—

In 1924 ran for the United States Senate—and was defeated.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

A Kansas City editor has found why boys from the smaller towns make good in New York. He says it is because they do not spend their time watching parades, an airplane writing smoke ads in the sky or championship ball games. It is because they do not spend their time watching streets being torn up and the elevated cars pained and the steam shovels and riveters at work. It is because they do not spend their time reminiscing about how wonderful it is that downtown was one up-town and noon up-town will be downtown; of how the goats used to roam where bootleggers now have palatial mansions. That, says the Kansas City editor, is the principal reason why the small-town boy make good in New York. He leaves all the things listed here to the boys who were born in New York—and who live there all their lives without making good.

TRY MORE SPEED

We read in a daily paper a statement credited to Dr. Eric Hardner, of London, to the effect that he has been keeping tab on auto accidents with the result that he finds 40 or 45 miles an hour the most dangerous speed for a car. He says when an accident occurs while a car is going 80 or 90 miles an hour, when there is a collision or it goes in the ditch, the person in it usually escape with a few bruises. This, says the doctor, is due to the fact that a person's body in such cases is generally thrown with such force that it "skips" and rolls along on the ground. But when the auto is going 40 or 45 miles an hour, the riders are more likely to be injured.

up in the air in such manner that they usually land on their heads. Everybody is entitled to his own opinion about this, and there is no reason why any driver can't disagree with the doctor if he wants to. For our part, we prefer to let somebody else be in the car or in front of it when something goes wrong, regardless of whether it is going 40 or 400 miles an hour.

WILLIAMS-JOHNSON

A wedding marked by quiet simplicity was that of Miss Mary Lou Johnson and Mr. Maxie Edgar Williams, which took place Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. L. Godbee, at 811 North Jefferson street. Rev. O. F. Cook, pastor of the First Methodist church, performed the impressive wedding ceremony in the presence of the immediate family of the couple.

The bride was lovely in a bolero gown of tan, flat crepe, with trimmings of rust and accessories to match. Mrs. Williams formerly lived in Statesboro, and has a number of friends there and in Albany, who were present at her marriage.

Mr. Williams is an associate of the Inman Grocery Co., of Albany. Immediately after the ceremony he and his bride left by motor for a short wedding trip, after which they will make their home in this city—Albany Herald.

Wonder how many millions of years asparagus hung around before somebody got up nerve enough to eat it?

Married couples should learn early in life that scraps do not make a meal, and neither do they make a happy home.

There are a million things a girl doesn't care to have her parents do, and one of them is to let her entertain her boy friend.

A woman has a hard time deciding whether to keep her china set unbroken or to let her husband help her with the dishes.

"JIM VAUGHAN" ELECTRIC MEAT AND BONE CUTTER

Steaks and chops are absolutely uniform and of even thickness so they cook better and evenly. There are no bone splinters on the steaks, chops, meat, soups, meats or bones. Electric meat cutting involves no handling of your meats and is therefore strictly sanitary.

Steaks and chops will fry in their own sweat as the meat may be cut so as to cover it with a fine film of its own fat, a very fine and superior cooking medium.

This is what "Jim Vaughan" does:

MISS RUBY HODGES.

(From the Macon Educator.)
Miss Hodges is now learning to be a law stenographer. She is with Lawton and Ware, lawyers, at Hawkinsville. When Mr. Harley Lawson gave her his order, he said he preferred a stenographer worth $150 a month rather than one worth only $50. We told him about Miss Hodges and the praise she had won for speed and accuracy, so he employed her. She writes that she is quite happy. We sent her out on temporary work before she finished school, and her employer paid her a bonus for her fine work and sent us a letter saying the school that could produce such a stenographer was to be congratulated. Her brother, also from Statesboro, took linotype with us and earned $9 a day in his first position, which was at Key West, Fla.—G. A. B. Collier, Macon, Ga.

CARD OF THANKS.

Farmers and Business Interests Need Hardman

Dr. L. G. Hardman, who is seeking for the Democratic nomination for governor, is a business man of the type sorely needed in Georgia. Standing four-square for clean and constructive methods in business and in politics his public and private life defies criticism. It is a significant fact that despite the charges and counter charges his opponents are filling against each other, not one of them has ventured a single criticism of Dr. Hardman.

Dr. Hardman is aligned with no faction. He is frankly committed to the interests of the people as a whole, and when he is elected the people who have been using the machinery of the state to further their own personal interests will find that for every dollar of public money they receive they must give an honest value.

Dr. Hardman knows the hardships under which the Georgia farmer has worked for so long. He knows the possibilities of Georgia farm lands, and knows that Georgia can only hope to become permanently prosperous when Georgia farmers are making money. He can be depended upon to do everything that is humanly possible to improve agricultural conditions, and his experience as a practical and successful farmer and orchardist has given him a practical insight into these problems that will prove of great value when he is governor.

Dr. Hardman stands for a properly administered State Department of Agriculture in charge of capable, highly trained and practical farmers who will spend their time in assisting the farmers of the state instead of in the building of a political machine for the purpose of keeping its members in office.

Dr. Hardman stands for correction of the state banking laws that will make forever impossible another such series of disasters as has taken place during the past few weeks. The farmer and the people in the smaller towns are the ones who suffered, and they are the ones who could least afford the loss.

Dr. Hardman is asking for your vote solely upon his fitness for the office to which he aspires. He is the candidate of no faction; no organization, and when elected will go into office with no pledges and under no obligation to any one except the people of Georgia as a whole.

Is there another candidate that can say as much?

Judge Alex. W. Stephens

Entitled to re-election to the Court of Appeals of Georgia

Seeks an endorsement of his record on the bench by re-election to a second term.

His record and experience entitle him to the endorsement by re-election which is usually accorded judicial officers who have properly discharged their duties.

Primary Sept. 8, 1926.

Quality of Judicial Work is the True Test of Judicial Efficiency

Judge Stephens has disposed of all cases within the time allowed by law, and with that dispatch consistent with just and correct decisions and the duty which the law imposes of writing opinions which create precedents.

The excellent record made by Judge Stephens for thorough and accurate work is fully understood by all who have followed his opinions, and such a record justifies his retention in the place where he is serving the people of Georgia so efficiently.

DID NOT ATTEMPT TO FORCE BONDS ON PEOPLE
To the Voters of Bulloch County:
In my campaign for re-election as a member of the legislature, I have in a few instances been made mindful of the criticism that is directed against those members who voted in the extra session for the submission of the proposed bond issue to the voters of Georgia. Opponents of the bond measure are charging as if it were a crime to permit the people to voice directly at the ballot box their preference on the matter.

I am not seeking to shirk any responsibility for any act of mine while in the legislature, for I acted in every instance as far as my judgment directed for the best interests of the people of my state and county.

I do not, however, want the people to be misled by any statements of those who have reasons to mislead as to my conduct.

There was before the legislature a proposition to submit to the people for their ratification or rejection a proposed bond issue for road improvement and school betterment. Whatever may have been my individual judgment as to the desirability of the proposed bond issue, I am firmly convinced that the people ought not to be denied the right to speak on a matter so important. I voted to give the people a voice. It ought to be understood that the legislature had no authority and asked none to impose bonds upon the people for anything. The matter has always been in the hands of the people, and my vote was in favor of giving them an opportunity to speak.

I cannot see how any man could honestly represent his people and at the same time refuse to submit to them the opportunity to be heard in their own voice at the ballot box.

Very respectfully,
JOHN C. PARRISH.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM INSURES BANKS SAFETY

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 23.—The Federal Reserve System may soon have an increased membership among the state banks as a result of recent bank failures in Georgia, according to Atlanta bankers. Bankers have urged the banks to join the federal reserve system, not only for the purpose of drawing about them the strong arms of protection against any storm that might break, but to assure for the depositors whose money banks administer, a system of rigid inspection and other governmental control measures that establish security and guarantee integrity of management.

It is claimed that some banks refuse to go in the federal reserve system because they want to avoid the rigid inspection and control laws governing the handling of deposits that the reserve system involves.

"The lessons recently are not only that every bank should join the reserve system, but that the people whose money on deposit makes banks possible, ought to demand of their banks the protection against insecurity that the federal system guarantees," says the Atlanta Constitution editorially. "And if they cannot get that, they should seek as places of deposit only such banks as will assure that protection."

A Thousand Welcomes Await Sheer Frocks

A thousand welcomes—indeed, many thousand welcomes—await those who flock to this silk or other sheer fabrics, for summer afternoon, they are now passing in review in the shops. They are cheerful as to color endlessly varied and cool as anything can be. Added to this is the important fact that they are inexpensive. Here is an example of the georgette frock—having a two-piece effect; the skirt is full at the front and narrow braid is used for its decoration. It is very pretty in any of the season's fashionable colors and is typical of the season's modes.

How Central of Georgia Railway Aids In Development of Territory It Serves

The Central of Georgia Railway recognizes that its first duty to the public is to supply quick, ample and reliable transportation. It also recognizes a further obligation—to aid in the development of the territory it serves. The railroad prospers and its business grows as its territory develops.

The best assurance of permanent prosperity is a development balanced between agriculture and industry. The Central of Georgia Railway has a Development Department with a force of trained and practical men whose services are at the disposal of the public, without charge. These men devote their entire time to building up agriculture and industry in the states served by the Central of Georgia. While this work is the especial function of the Development Department the officers and employees of other departments take keen and active interest in all matters that have to do with the progress of the Southeast.

"While keeping always in mind the basic requirement of prompt, adequate and reliable transportation, there are many other things that a railroad can do to advance the interests of its territory. It is interesting to note the wide field of constructive work that is open to a railroad that believes in the territory it serves and the centers attention upon natural resources, manufacturing opportunities, business possibilities and climatic advantages. The Central of Georgia, for instance, is now engaged in an extensive advertising campaign to make the public familiar with the opportunities for successful ceramic and textile manufacture in this section. Before long this campaign facts were established by careful research work conducted by the railway. The Industrial Department works with chambers of commerce and civic organizations in attracting new industries and in securing new residents.

The Agricultural Department co-operates with the farmers as they diversify their crops. It shares in the expense of experimental work that promises increased profit to the farmer. It places at their disposal a study and a knowledge of approved and advanced methods.

The railway's Freight Traffic Department endeavors to establish and maintain freight rates that will place and keep enterprises in this territory on a fair competitive basis. Shippers are assured of ample car supply and are given complete information as to shipments.

The Passenger Traffic Department, through its agents throughout the country and by widespread advertising, encourages tourists, vacation visitors and home-seekers to come to the Southeast. Cheap excursions are operated frequently and low fares are made for week-end trips and for the resort season.

There are many things that the various departments of the Central of Georgia can do, and are doing, to promote development. The public has shown its appreciation of this practice by according the Central of Georgia a liberal share of its business. The Central's revenue tonnage has increased 136 per cent, during the past ten years—a gain well above the average increase of Southeastern railroads.

The Central of Georgia takes real pride and finds genuine satisfaction in promoting, by every means in its power, the development of its territory. It acknowledges with sincere thanks the approval of its patrons—which has been evidenced in many ways. It promises to continue and to increase its efforts, both to give courteous and efficient transportation service and to build up the country.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.
